Affective Presence. How minority religion takes place in Berlin

Drawing on selected scenes from our documentary film Becoming present. Religious Diversity in the City, this contribution explores how minoritized religious groups in Berlin seek, establish, aspire to, and sense various forms of affective (co)presence and conviviality in the German capital. The film will be shown in German and as it is still a rough cut we will provide a handout with short descriptions of the scenes in English.

Join us on-site in the FU Seminar Centre, Otto-von-Simson-Str. 26, 14195 Berlin, room L116. Or online in our Webex room.
