

1st StuMedAnth Meeting

February 11th-12th 2010

hosted by :
the Institute for Social Anthropology,
Free University Berlin, Germany

Preliminary Program

PART I- MEMBERS PRESENTATIONS – Thursday, 9.30 am–6 pm, Friday, 10 am–1 pm

Time for each presentation is 15 minutes

Panel 1 - Gender & Health

1. Husbands' Roles in Prenatal Care in Addis Ababa

Mekonnen MULETA (PhD Student), University of Amsterdam, Netherlands

2. Sharing responsibility: perceptions and awareness of male partners regarding the effects of female contraception

Sadia CHOWDHURY (Graduate Student), International Center for Diarrheal Disease Research, Bangladesh

3. Culturing the Population Bomb: On Slovak Fears of Roma Wombs

Edit SZÉNÁSSY (PhD Candidate), Charles University Prague, Czech Republic

4. Associations between social and family factors and vulnerability of Uzbekistan's women to HIV/AIDS

Lyubov DJALLADYAN (PhD Candidate), Mahidol University, Thailand

5. Doing gender and shifting practices: Genetic testing and disorders of Sex Development

Daniela CROCKETTI (PhD Candidate), Bologna University, Italy

Panel 2 - Medical Pluralism

1. Wartime children in northern Uganda managed their mental distress in the context of medical pluralism

Grace AKELLO (Postdoc), Gulu University, Uganda

2. Medical pluralism in Mexico: Reproductive health in the Purépecha Region

Anna Helena WADOLOWSKA (PhD Candidate), Adam Mickiewicz University Poznan, Poland

3. 'Who is Fou?' - Ethnographic Examples for a Constructivist Perspective on Insanity

Carsten MILDNER (Graduate Student), University of Bayreuth, Germany

4. 'Supernatural healing' – the meanings of health and illness in charismatic Catholic communities

Michał KOCIKOWSKI (PhD Candidate), University of Warsaw, Poland

5. Other Planets. The replacement of a medical category and its implications

Mirna COLA (PhD Candidate), SUM (Istituto Italiano di Scienze Umane) and University of Siena, Bologna, Italy

6. Contextualizing the Czech National HIV/AIDS Program – The Politics of Un/Success

Lukas LAUBE (PhD Candidate), Charles University, Prague, Czech Republic

7. Medical Pluralism in Europe - an Eastern Poland example

Malgorzata Anna CHARYTON (PhD Candidate), Adam Mickiewicz University Poznan, Poland

8. Islam and Mental Health Treatment Seeking Behavior in Urban Bangladesh

Gen STUDER (Graduate student), University of Heidelberg, Germany

Panel 3 - Migration & Health

1. Health Beliefs and Help Seeking Practices of Migrants from the Former USSR in Germany
Polina ARONSON (PhD Student), Warwick University, United Kingdom
2. Strangely familiar - doing research in a clinical setting "at home": access to a psychiatric ward and relations to gatekeepers
Nina GRUBE (PhD Candidate), University Muenster, Germany
3. Medical Diversity, migration and the politics of social relations
Kristine KRAUSE (PhD Candidate), Oxford University, UK and Humboldt University Berlin, Germany
4. Active Filmwork with an integrative aspect for youth with the backgrounds mental disorder (here in the presentation), migration and disability
Karin DUERR (Graduate student), Free University Berlin, Germany

Panel 4 – Anthropology of Pharmaceuticals and Medical Biotechnologies

1. Contribution, Challenge, or Threat? Dutch Psychiatrists' Attitudes towards Pharmaceutical Promotion
Payam ABRISHAMI (Graduate Student), University of Amsterdam, Netherlands
2. "Fertility Tourism" - circumvention routes and enabling technologies
Sven BERGMANN (Graduate Student), Humboldt University Berlin, Germany
3. "No matter if you're sick in bed or crying at a burial - take your ARVs!" - The ambivalent production of patient adherence to antiretroviral treatment in urban Tanzania
Dominik MATTES (PhD Candidate), Free University Berlin, Germany
4. Constructing the anorexic patient: an anthropological approach to the interactions between medical therapies and the configuration of illness experiences
Federica DEIANA (PhD Candidate), Centro de Ciencias Humanas y Sociales, Madrid, Spain

Panel 5 – Methodologies and Ethics in Field Work

1. Scaling Comparisons: Some theoretical, methodological and practical issues of ethnographically comparing in medical anthropology
Janina KEHR (PhD Candidate), Ecole des hautes études en sciences sociales Paris, France, and Humboldt University Berlin, Germany
2. Describing the Field without "Going Crazy" – the Ethics of Description
Martina KLAUSNER (PhD Candidate), Humboldt University Berlin, Germany
3. Representations, Responsibilities, Recommendations. A case from the field of HIV/AIDS research in Uganda
Birgitte FOLMANN (PhD Candidate), Aarhus University, Denmark

PART II– WORKSHOP ON APPLIED MEDICAL ANTHROPOLOGY – Friday, 2.30 pm–5.30 pm

With Dr Rachael Goberman-Hill and Dr Kathryn Tomlinson