

Talk on “Climate change-induced Human Migration and Displacement: Understanding the Theoretical and Policy Implications”
by Prof. Jacob Park

On: Tuesday the 12th January 2016,
from 2 p.m to 3 p.m

Where: Ihnestrasse 22, FFU Conference Room 3.1.c.

Prof. Jacob Park, associate professor of business and public policy at Green Mountain College since 2002, specializes in the teaching and research of global environment & business strategy, corporate social responsibility, business ethics, and community-based entrepreneurship & innovation.

A former financial journalist with Fortune Magazine, global environmental policy advisor to Japan’s Ministry of Economy, Trade and Industry, and a United Nations research specialist on Asian environmental and urban development issues, he worked as a senior research consultant and Japanese and Asian equity specialist in the Governance and Socially Responsibility Investment Group of ISIS Asset Management, a London-based investment company.

An editorial/review board member of the Journal of Corporate Citizenship, Business Strategy and the Environment and the Greener Management International, his most recent book is the “Ecology of the New Economy: Sustainable Transformation of Global Information Technology, Communication, and Electronics Industries” (Greenleaf Publishing, 2002) and is currently working on two edited books, “Sustainable Global Governance”, and “Ecological Modernization & Asia-Pacific.”