Explanations for the doctor:

If a student has been prevented from working on his or her Bachelor's / Master's thesis due to an acute temporary illness, the Examination Board may, upon request, extend the write-up period by the period of the proven inability to take part in the examination. The reason for the inability to take the examination must be reported in writing to the examination board immediately and must be supported by a medical certificate. A medical certificate is a certificate stating why the student is unable to study or take part in an examination. Please note, neither a certificate of incapacity to work nor the simple indication of a doctor that the student was unable to take an exam is sufficient. Instead, the medical certificate must describe the health impairment and symptoms and give an indication of the impact on the performance of the student. Please be aware that an extension may be granted for less than the period indicated in your doctors certificate. The final decision over the inability to take part in an examination rests with the Examination Board.
